

Extra Credit Problem 1

Write a computer program that solves the exact differential equation for a simple pendulum. Use your program to produce a graph of the period of the motion as a function of its amplitude. How large does the amplitude have to be for the period to differ from the small amplitude result by 1%? by 10%?